

A Preview of AI's Impact on IT Security

Join CompTIA, Le Moyne College, and Logical Operations for an evening exploring AI security, workforce development, certification trends, and networking.

Whether you're looking to earn your next certification, stay ahead of the latest trends in cybersecurity and AI, or connect with other IT professionals in Central New York, we invite you to join CompTIA, Le Moyne College, and Logical Operations for a special evening dedicated to the future of technology training.

 Thursday, September 10

 Program: 5:30 PM – 7:00 PM

 Networking: 7:00 PM – 7:30 PM

 Le Moyne College – Syracuse, NY

This exclusive in-person event offers a unique opportunity to hear directly from CompTIA, learn about emerging AI security certifications, discover innovative workforce development initiatives, and connect with fellow IT professionals over complimentary food and networking.

Event Agenda

- Hear from ERIE21 at Le Moyne College, as they share their innovative education and workforce development initiative designed to prepare students and adult learners for careers in technology through hands-on learning, industry certifications, career readiness, and partnerships with employers across central New York.
- Hear directly from CompTIA about the value of industry certifications, current workforce trends, and how certifications can help advance your IT career.
- Get an exclusive preview of the new CompTIA SecAI+ certification from Logical Operations, including what the certification covers, why AI security skills are becoming increasingly important for cybersecurity professionals, and what candidates can expect from this exciting new training and certification opportunity.
- Hear success stories from former Logical Operations students, who will share their certification journeys, exam experiences, and the impact earning a CompTIA certification has had on their careers.
- Network with representatives from Le Moyne College, CompTIA, and Logical Operations, along with fellow IT professionals from across Central New York, during a post-event networking reception.

We'll also have complimentary catered food and refreshments available throughout the evening.

Whether you're exploring your first CompTIA certification, planning your next professional development goal, or simply looking to stay connected with the local technology community, we hope you'll join us for this informative and engaging event.
